

Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention relates to the use of a substance having a FSH activity for reducing gamete chromosomal alterations in a male, more specifically in men suffering from spermatozoa aneuploidy.